JEROME-BINGHAM ROW GROWS

FORMER SURE CITY WILL BE WADER OPEN THAN EVER.

Gives Six Weeks as the Time in Which That Condition Will Come About-Likewiss Regards Bingham's Actions as an Affront-Spat With Magistrate Crane.

District Attorney Jerome predicts that as a result of Police Commissioner Bingham's actions toward his disbanded raiding squad this town will be wider open within six weeks than it has been before in six years. The District Attorney expressed this fear last night after he had commented on the arrest of Sergt. Wasserman and Detective Reardon, the two head raiders, at the instance of the Police Commissioner.

Mr. Jerome regards the arrest of these men on charges of oppression while his office was investigating as a personal affront and a direct implication that he as a sworn public official would not do his duty.

He was in the Essex Market police court when the two men were arraigned yesterday morning and after a stormy session with Magistrate Crane left the fact on record that he had appeared not to defend the men but as prosecuting attorney of the county. In view of the arrests he will not appear, as he had intended, as counsel for Wasserman and Detective Mara at the Police Department trials next Saturday.

The result of the police court proceedings vesterday was that Wasserman and Reardon were paroled to appear for examination in the Tombs court on February 1.

The "friendly feeling" between the District Attorney's office and Police Headquarters seems to have reached its warmest point last Monday night when Mr. Jerome and Gen. Bingham met at the Transportation Club. That conference, it was learned yesterday, ended with the Commissioner's emanding back all the original affidavits which he had submitted to Mr. Jerome as evidence. The District Attorney since then has been working with cot ies.

Here is what Mr. Jerome had to say last night in regard to the arrests being made over his head;

"While in a somewhat active career I have been assailed by persons whose personal characters seemed to me a bit moth saten. this is the first time that i have ever en-deavored to help a public official on the theory that he was an honest gentleman and have been rewarded by a course of action on his part the direct implication of which is that I, a sworn public official, would not do my duty.

"I fear that the result of what seems to me the Commissioner's unfortunate action will be that in six weeks the town as far as the victous element is concerned, will more open than it has been before in ars. Aheady, if I am correctly informed by newspaper men, the result that would naturally be expected is becoming ap-

Mr. Jerome said that in the course of Mr. Jerome said that in the course of his investigation not a few of the persons who made affidavits for Commissioner Bingham have been proved unworthy of belief. He added that his investigation into the charges and also into the characters of the affiants would go on just as if no arrests had been made.

Commissioner bingham said that the reason for his bringing the charges into the police court was merely that the District Attorney hadn't taken the steps which the Folice Department officials deemed necessary.

deemed necessary.

The Police Department will make no objection to having the District Attorney prosecute the police ccurt cases against Reardon and Wasserman, but at the same time they will be represented by counsel.

Reardon was arrested on three com-Reardon was arrested on three com-plaints and Wasserman on one. They were at the Essex Market court at 9 o'clock sharp, with Abe Levy, their counsel. Mr. Jarone also was on hand at the opening of

"Do you attend as District Attorney or as a private individual?" asked Magistrate Crane of Mr. Jerome. "I attend as the District Attorney of this county prosecuting the cases," said

"Are you prosecuting?" asked the Mag-istrate, looking over his glasses.
"Have you any doubt on that subject?"
retorted the District Attorney.
"I don't know; you said you were going to defend them."

"I said no such thing to you or anybody else, and you have no right to say such a thing."

thing."

"I asked you," repeated the Magistrate.

"if you appeared as District Attorney or as a private individual?"

"You asked me if I was prosecuting.
You asked me an insulting question when I told you I was prosecuting the cases.
I tell you now as District Attorney of this county that I am going to prosecute the cases If the Court means any irnuendo by any emphasis on that word I tell the by any emphasis on that word I tell the Court that it uses language that is improper and unbecoming in any court."

Magistrate Crane's face was getting red.

"I am the judge of what is proper here!"

"Who is this person, may I ask the Court?" interrupted Mr. Jerome.
Hannon introduced himself, explaining that he was a lawyer and that he had been instructed by Third Deputy Commissioner Hanson to say that the matters in the complaints had been laid Lefore the District Attorney and that he had said that he didn't think there was sufficient ground for prosecution. Mr. Jerome was interested in these instructions, and has night ested in these instructions, and last night he denied that he had ever said any such thing to Deputy Hanson.

thing to Deputy Hanson.

The complainants against Reardon are Harry Mitchell of 198 South First street, Brooklyn: Ruth Kirsch, 19 years old, of 1509 Mermaid avenue, Brooklyn, and Berney Marks, a cigarmaker of 130 Broome street, who was a candidate for the Republican nomination for Alderman in his district last election.

lican nomination for Alderman in his district last election

Mitchell worked in a "pool parlor" at 312 Grand street. He says that on the night of December 29 Reardon and ten others raided the place. Some of them had their revolvers drawn and shouted "Hands up!" Reardon, according to Mitchell, approached him and holding up a blackjack said: "Put your money out of your pocket or "I'll brain you." Mitchell says he laid $1 on the table and that Reardon put it in his pecket. Mitchell wasn't arrested and later, according to his statement, went to the Fldridge street station, where he asked Reardon for enough money to pay his carfare home. The other complaints were along the same The other complaints were along the same lines, although Ruth Kirsch says that vile names and abusive language only were used against her. She was in her cousin's saloon at 90 Willett street. Marks says in his affidavit that he has suffered a pain in his ear ever since Detective Reardon hit him in the face without provocation. He says he was in a cigar store at 270 Grand street collecting a bill when Reardon and the others entered.

It was reported yesterday that since the Jerome-Bingham rumpus began somebody has been tapping Mr. Jerome's telephone wires. Reardon and Wasserman say their telephone wires have also been tapped. Mr. Jerome said he was certain that the Commissioner had not tapped his wires, but he thought it would have been perfectly proper for him in legitimate detective work to have kapped the two detectives' wires. to have tapped the two detectives' wires.

MYSTERY OF A DIAMOND BROOCH. Student Offers to Pawn It in Philadelphia and New York Woman Goes to Rescue. PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.-The case of Horace B. Guernsey, a young medical student who tried to pledge a brooch valued at $250 on Thursday, became more complicated to-day by the advent of Mattie Purdy of 311 West Eighty-seventh street, New York, to try to aid Guernsey. She told Captain of Detectives Donaghy that Guernsey had a right to dispose of the brooch. Notwithstanding her story Guernsey was kept under surveillance at the Medico-Chirurgical Hospital, where he

"I am the judge of what is proper here!" he retorted.

"And I," replied Mr. Jerome, "am a very good judge of you, sir. I repeat that I am going to prosecute these cases as District Attorney of this county."

"The cases will be tried properly and justly," said the Magistrate, making an effort to control himself.

"They surely will while I am prosecuting attorney of this county."

"Oh!" exclaimed Magistrate Crane, "I guess the people of New York have some confidence in me."

"Well, the people of this city have shown me that they have respect for me," was Mr. Jerome's rejoinder.

Magistrate Crane allowed that there was no necessity for discussing that sort of thing now, and Lieut. Hannon, who represented the Police Department, started to say something.

"Who is this person, may I ask the Court?" interrupted Mr. Jerome.

Lieut. Traynor, in charge of the New York of the New York is a student at the Medico-Surgical College, was arrested on information furnished by a pawnbroker as he was trying to secure a loan of $250 on a diamond brooch. He explained to the police that the jewel had been sent to him by his wife, who was in New York, to pay his tuition.

At the hospital to-day it was said that the young man was in no condition to be removed. The police believe, however, that he was shamming, as it was in response to a message from him that the Purdy woman came to Philadelphia.

After his talk with the women Capt. Donaghy communicated with the police in New York and a short time afterward received a telegram to hold the woman. The arrest was made as she was about to leave the city.

Lieut. Traynor, in charge of the New York

Lieut. Traynor, in charge of the New York Detective Bureau, sent Detective O'Brien to 311 West Fighty-seventh street, which is the residence of C. Franklin Purdy, a real estate man. A young woman met him and said she was Miss Purdy, the owner of the pin. She said she didn't want to prosecute the man arrested in Philadelphia.

Mr. Purly himself met a reporter who went to the house later and said that the pin belonged to his wife. He said his wife was out of the city, but declined to say where. He said he would appear in court against the man who had the pin, but his wife wouldn't. wife wouldn't.

The case against Police Inspector Walsh, who was charged with oppression under section 558 of the Penal Code, the section which District Attorney's detectives Reardon and Wasserman have since been secused of violating, was dismissed yesterday morning in Special Sessions upon the recommendation of the District Attorney.

In his motion to dismiss Mr. Jerome said:

SOVEREIGN BANK EMBARRASSED, But Depositors of Toronto Concern Will He Paid Off at Once.

TORONTO, Jan. 17.—The Canadian Bankers Association at a meeting here to-day decided to take charge of the Sovereign Bank of Canada and at least guarantee the note circulation, the concern being embarrassed.

To-morrow morning the Sovereign and all its branches, therefore, will open under the wing of the Canadian association.

Depositors who wish to withdraw their savings will be allowed to do so, but there is much uncertainty as to where the share-holders will finish.
